

Approved For Release 2000/05/24 : CIA-RDP75-0014

SPOKESMAN REVIEW
(Spokane, Washington)

April 23, 1958

CPYRGHT

U. S. SPURNS HIS DATA

KOREAN "SPY" SAYS
CPYRGHT

A man who claims his organization has successfully predicted every move of the Japanese and Russians since 1932 said this week the Soviets have just successfully completed a series of submarine tests that indicate Russia can destroy American bases at Thule, Greenland, and the Hawaiian islands with crewless submarines.

Kilsoo Haan, who says he represents the Sino-Korean People's League and what he describes as the "Korean underground," displayed carbon copies of reports addressed to the United States Central Intelligence Agency.

Cites Secret Tests

Haan, in Spokane on a business trip, brought a sheaf of reports and clippings from newspapers to The Spokesman-Review with the explanation that "the government just doesn't seem to be interested."

In the latest of a series of reports submitted to the CIA by Haan's "underground" group in an effort to get official recognition, the successful completion of "exhaustive" Soviet tests with crewless submarines "to perfect their 'electronic navigational and ballistics missiles guidance system' in the Arctic and Pacific oceans" is reported.

The report also concerned former Soviet premier Georgi Malenkov. It said Malenkov personally delivered 12 of the latest Soviet tanks "that can withstand atomic radiation" to Red China and also reported that Malenkov is to supervise the building of an atomic weapons factory in Sinkiang Province.

Formosa Liberation Seen

In a February report, also to the CIA, Haan's organization predicted that Red China would attempt to "liberate Formosa" from Chiang Kai-shek's forces in "1958-59" with Russian approval and cooperation as part of a Sino-Russian policy to "risk regional wars."

Haan claims that he has tried unsuccessfully to interest the United States government in his organization since before the attack on Pearl Harbor in 1941, and displayed several letters from high officials, including Vice President Richard Nixon, in which he was politely turned down.

Haan claims his group predicted more than a year ago that Russia would launch its first Sputnik early in 1958. The launching came in November, 1957.

He also is in possession of letters and papers that appear to indicate his group's accurate predictions of North Korean and Chinese movements and intent prior to the outbreak of war in Korea.

Called "Rabble Rouser"

One of Haan's displays concerns the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

On October 11, 1941, Senator Guy M. Gillette of Iowa backed Haan in submitting "detailed maps and documents showing the Japanese plan of attack in the Pacific" to Congress.

Haan's name was not used in Associated Press dispatches to Hawaii concerning this material, but his name was brought up by the Honolulu STAR-BULLETIN, which described him as a "rabble rouser" and said "he has gone far beyond reasonable bounds in his real or assumed hatred for the Japanese."

Other documents, some of them addressed to then Secretary of State Cordell Hull and dated early in 1941, apparently correctly predicted important moves of the